

Making a difference in clinical pathology and integrative care for the future

New Zealand's healthcare system has been continuing to face a critical turning point—and at the heart of every functioning public health system is Clinical Pathology. Without a solid, reliable foundation in this area, we cannot have a functioning healthcare system.

Tahitanga aims to be that foundation for our community. With a commitment to integrity, transparency, trust, and education, we are preparing to support the major changes ahead in the healthcare sector.

Tahitanga cohesively unifies high-quality clinical pathology services and proven integrative practices to create a truly comprehensive model of care. Our vision is to help establish a much-needed community hospital that delivers exceptional, holistic healthcare through a collaborative approach.

Our mission

To support the community by providing clinical information and integrative healthcare in a purposeful manner using early actionable clinical data for patient care with state-of-the-art diagnostics with a strong foundation of environmental integrity.

A Vision for Synergistic Community Health

We believe true health starts with prevention, education, and community connection.

Our dedicated board of directors and advisors continue to guide this vision, helping us shape a model that reflects the needs of our community and contributes to a healthier, sustainable future. At the heart of Tahitanga is a commitment to high standards of care with a collaborative, integrative approach. We combine modern medicine with wellness practices, and support this with ongoing research, training, continuing education, and innovative healthcare technology. We're also deeply committed to environmental responsibility—caring for our land is part of caring for our people.

Together, we're building a health centre that will serve our community now and for generations to come.

“Coming together is a beginning, keeping together is progress, working together is success” Henry Ford

A Not-For-Profit Community Health Centre

Tahitanga operates as a community trust and non-profit organization, designed to function as a vital asset for our community. Many feel that our current healthcare system is in crisis—underfunded, unsustainable and disjointed. In response, Tahitanga integrates both Eastern and Western medical practices to deliver comprehensive diagnostics, treatment, and wellness support.

As a community trust, all profits are reinvested directly into the community. Tahitanga works in partnership with local healthcare providers, research organizations, continuing education programs, and internship initiatives. By prioritizing wellness care and early diagnostics, we can significantly reduce the long-term costs and burdens on our future healthcare.

We're inviting community members from many different specialties — builders, scientists, creatives, practitioners, and more—to help shape the future of Tahitanga Health Centre. Your ideas, expertise, and needs are vital in creating a cohesive, community-driven initiative that reflects and serves our community.

To lay the groundwork, we are continuing to raise an initial $10,000 within the community. These funds will cover essential business setup costs and complete Stage 2 of our architectural planning. This includes a 3D model and a detailed cost estimate for the build—key steps in moving us closer to our vision and securing additional funding.

If you're interested in contributing, collaborating, or simply learning more, we'd love to hear from you. Let's work together toward a brighter, healthier future—built by the community, for the community.
